Hares: Na Hee Man & Swollen Colon

phuket-hhh.com

Where better to laager than by the pools and waterfalls in Tonsai National Park in the rain, and what made the rainy laager even better was the delicious food and spicy curries laid on by GM Wilma to open the pre-circle with a feed. Well done to Wilma and Little Toe for all the hard work. Lucky the rain held out until the end of the eating, then made up for itself with a deluge and a few less hearty heading home early.

GM Wilma opened the circle with the hares in for a down-down and Na Hee Man's announcement that since this was his birthday run we were welcome to 40 B beers. GOOD RUN rang out from the circle.

Our able horn today was Rusty Hook who's back in Phuket again. He was volunteered by Flip Flop, Creature & Twice Nightly because he looks cute!

As the park trails were too dangerous the hares laid a loop outside the park gates and through some great drainages and jungle slopes complete with vines and mud. The muddy butts returning to the laager looked more like a club logo there were so many.

Although Good Run was called it had to be the 40 B beers and free food as the list of grievances was severe, from the hares putting out NO HHH signs, to not allowing dogs in the laager but Swollen Colon bringing his, and letting it run loose, to claiming we'd run in the park but not doing so, and on, and on.
