

SCRIBE REPORT RUN #1861

Saturday, 11 June, 2022

Hares: Lucky Lek, Fungus & Invisible Man

phuket-hhh.com

A Harvester's Run

This may have been the run of the year for the pinchers and harvesters. Everywhere there was something to eat right there or steal away! Even Tequilla Slapper stopped taking pictures long enough to harvest a bag full of sweet mulberries. This particular drainage area had incredibly tall durian trees loaded with perfectly ripe durian ban literally falling from the trees, just begging to be taken home. Along the trails and within pinching reach were beautiful fresh limes and on the ground were endless amounts of sweet kratone and the first sataaw ready for picking, and even several kinds of edible mushrooms. Obviously the cattle had been happy grazing there earlier in the day judging by the large number of large piles of fresh shit all over the laager site, which Lucky Lek carefully covered with banana leaves that several people were seen carefully looking under to satisfy some bizarre curiosity, one person checking under several. Now we know why PH3's main harvester Lucky Lek wanted to make a run here and what he means when he says free tastes even better.

Sometimes what makes a run fun is knowing a bit from behind the scene, like today when Invisible Man shunted and maneuvered Fungus into getting hash shit knowing full well it should have been himself getting the seat. He only pulled this off because our real runmaster Manneken Pis was absent today. Manneken Pis would have discovered such things like hare Invisible Man really hadn't even seen all the run or any of the walk, and hadn't laid any of the paper. Apparently Invisible Man's attitude had been negatively affected after tobogganing down a slippery muddy slope on his wet plastic poncho before slamming to a stop against a tree stump. Lucky Lek estimated IM laid there and cried about 20 minutes before they could move on, which is a lot less than the 2.5 hours Gorgeous had laid on the ground the last time he went haring with Fungus. Well done Invisible Man. Remember, haring is fun if you look at it from the right direction.

Our stewards today were Paper and La Lasagna pitting a line of men against a line of women. Paper gave a full set of directions in such a hacked way that La Lasagna had to translate what Paper's commands to touch Head, Butt, Breasts, or Box meant because they were to be given in Thai. Immediate distress came to Bobagob because he couldn't find his box and then Not Hard Enough who said she really didn't have breasts patting down the area where they would normally be, so she was eliminated. Soon Jessica barged in and never relinquishing her cigarette began naming body parts faster and faster until she was singing them. Rubber Up The Shithole saved the day for the men, probably because he spends so much time touching himself anyway. Overall winner for the girls was On Her Back for touching herself correctly over and over again and the men iced for liking it. A second activity tested how good men are handling brooms.

On command each was to leave their broom standing then run to grab the next guy's broom before it fell. It was pretty easy to see this as an outright attack on manliness, which didn't work when the penultimate broom holder Ultimate Fucking Cunt won the day, saying he's even faster with a mop.

GM Not Long Enough and Not Hard Enough have been working their schedules to earn a run shirt on the same day. NLE said getting a free shirt for NHE was cheaper than flowers. Little Toe was called in to receive her 100 Run shirt and Wilma said her free shirt was cheaper than buying shoes which explained why she was wearing plastic-bag socks with sandals. Here's to the cheap-charlies Wilma and Not Long Enough, they are blue!!!

ON ON, Scribe, Fungus (more pics)