

SCRIBE REPORT RUN #1929

Saturday 30th September 2023

Hares: Ejackulator, J.C., Paper, Creature FTBL & Flip Flop
phuket-hhh.com

The Laager site was in Kathu next to Paper's house (very handy for 2 of the Hares). Not only did it stay dry but the sun shone too - a perfect day for a party and it was a great turnout. However, the acoustics were a bit dodgy and weren't helped by the nearby building work. We were late to get underway as the Patong minibus (which had morphed into a songthaew due to the large number of passengers) struggled to make it on time.

Proceedings started in the usual way with The Hares being welcomed by the GM. The Run Master chose Top off as Hash Horn for his blowing and laying skills. We were given a few instructions and then we were off... straight up the concrete road (no chance of a warm up today!) We passed through the usual types of vegetation (rubber trees and bamboo) and had a little stream to hop across. No idea what the run was like today as I didn't get chance to talk to a runner afterwards.

Back at the circle, it was 30 baht beers. Cheers Ejackulator! And then a spread of food appeared (catered by Shakers). After we'd filled our boots, the Hares were thanked and Wilma was brought in as stand-in Horn (as Top Off had already cleared off). The GM had heard the horn blowing, but all over the jungle and 3 people were still out on the trail. Good job or not?!

Lucky Lek cried, "Announemen" but not before calling Ejackulator in for a quick anecdote.

Charity sponsored walk from Sarasin to Promthep Cape -
Sunday 1st to 3rd October (you can still sponsor the walkers)
Tinmen - Wednesday 4th October in Kathu, Patong Hills.

The Birthday Boys

Circle highlights/run offences:

Congratulations to Manneken Pis and Bunnyken Pis, who ran away up north to get 'officially' married.

Not Cleaver wanted to know why J.C. hadn't warned us about dangerous dogs on the trail. J.C. was bitten whilst haring (Flip Flop is checking out his bandage).

Then the GM called in Doesn't Touch The Sides, who was also bitten on his way round.

Jaws lightened the mood with a quick blast of "Jake the peg".

Maybe because it was a party, the GM organised a water drinking relay. The team on the left nailed it!

Tootsie, do you always dress up in your mother's clothes? Well spotted Manneken Pis! (refer to the small print on the t-shirt)

GM borrowed a motorbike to take Somebody Else's Dick haring. The bike broke down on a hill, a homeless guy (not Fungus) fixed it and then rode off with it. They were left in the middle of nowhere.

Eagle-eyed Wilma saw Rusty Hook running with new shoes (fancy ones too, all the way from Bangkok). After the run, he hid them in his car, where Wilma kindly found them again. It took Who The Fuck Is Alice a long time to fill it with beer!

Wilma brought these 3 legends in because last weekend they completed the 35 km Phuket Trail - The Jungle 2023. Well done to Rusty Hook, Not Long Enough and Masarap (she placed 2nd in her category!)

Up The Back brought in the rest of Ejackulator fan club, who were wearing his birthday shirt's from last year.

Jaws saw MP having a soapy sud session (a wash) in the back of his truck. Now he's a married man he's sorting his hygiene out!

A big group of returners today so no time to talk to them all!

T-shirts:

700 Runs for Saint Blow Job (it's taken him a year to collect it!)

100 Runs for On And Off

222 Runs for Invisible Man

333 Runs for Who's Fucking Who The Fuck Is Alice (Tootsie had a try on first!)

1200 Runs for J.C. (apologies for the fading light)

Virgin Hare shirt for Amazing Disgrace (sorry, it's getting darker!)

We welcomed 6 virgins today. Wilma noticed one of them had new shoes. Will he be back?

Bobagob got to do his postponed Steward spot today. He thanked myself and my side-kick, Doesn't Touch The Sides (proof-reader), for the weekly scribe notes and encouraged everyone to read them - thank you. Then there was time for some good-natured banter with Soi Dog, the Australians (which brought on a quick chorus of "born illegitimate")

In the almost pitch black, Not Long Enough came in to find out whether it had been a good run. Given that we'd had cheap beer, complimentary food and birthday cake, the crowd said, "GOOD RUN!"
