The Pre-Run

This week's Laager site was in a gated area with a grassy knoll for the circle and included wooden benches and lumps of rock for those requiring a seat. Parking was a slight problem especially for some more than others.

The Run and Hares

Hares this week were a cast of thousands namely Lucky Lek, Fungus, Joxy Moron, Substandard & Sam Song. The role of Hash Horn went to Honking Dickhead - not sure what he did wrong to earn this honour but he must have done something. Fungus explained at great length the details of the run in order that we didn't have a repeat of last week's Hash with the Walkers – however he explained it so much I was convinced he was actually contradicting himself – I thought however hey ho I'm sure it will all come clear once we get going – how wrong can you be. Joxy pointed out they had cut lots of steps but due to the recent unseasonable rain some of these had been washed out. Bearing in mind the Laager was at the top of a hill it was fairly obvious we would be heading downhill and since steps had been provided how steep the downhill would be. So off we set and as expected downhill we went, initially on concrete roads which led onto dirt tracks and then into the jungle.

There was a check at this point which seemed to confuse a few. On the downward descent I got passed by Top Off and Campari who were clearly both ahead of us earlier on. Anyway on down we went using the nice steps provided and could see the reservoir coming into view. I thought surely we're not going all the way down but sure enough we did and once there we were about 40 minutes into the run and probably no better than the halfway point – so got a little bit demoralised as it would now be uphill all the way back to the Laager assuming nothing else was thrown into the mix. Not only that there were only three of us together at this point and nobody else to be seen. As we continued with the ascent Wilma then came alongside and it wasn't because he arrived late. So on we continued but I was then starting to lose contact with my compatriots and as per usual they eventually disappeared from sight never to be seen again. I kept following the multicolour and eventually came to some steps which I went up but could not find any follow on paper. After checking around for a while I eventually went back to the steps and then found the multicolour going to the right which I followed and eventually came to some blue paper. This I followed and eventually found multicolour – at his juncture I wasn't sure should I be going multicolour to blue or blue to multicolour. After a few falsies I realised I was on the-out trail multicolour and then went back down the blue to find more multicolour which I reasoned was the Walkers link to the Runners in trail – this I followed and eventually made it back to the Laager with the Circle in full swing.

No problem really but as I have important duties to perform I need to be back in time for the start of the . Does that mean I am now consigned to doing the walk each week or go for a body transplant. Read more about this further on.

The Circle

GM will have started the circle by calling in the Hares and the Hash horn for a drink and thanking them for their efforts. As there were so many of them needed to be sure they wouldn't drink the beer truck dry.

I missed the Annoumen but I'm guessing what was said is also on the web site. I did however hear later in the week that Jungle Balls was in hospital recovering from open heart surgery and saw a message from him that he was hoping to get out of hospital by the weekend. We all wish him a speedy recovery.

Jaws and Invisible Man were probably called in to list the Virgins of which there were 15 of which 8 came in to receive the dastardly treatment. Well done to them.

Visiting Hashers – No visiting Hashers this week.

Hash Shirts Many T-shirts this week as follows:

- Shagarazzi - 500 runs
- Oy Pussylcker - 200 runs
- Heru - 100 runs
- Train Spotter - 100 runs
- Cosk Taste Pussy - 100 runs
- Seaman Stains - 25 runs
- Substandard - 25 runs

Sorry If I have missed any

Steward Spot - This week's Steward spot was rather a coup for Fungus. Many said it couldn't be done but he managed to persuade Asterix who has only been coming on PHHH for the last twenty years to accept the gig.

Started with calling in all the French Nationals for a drink – other French speakers were excluded.

Trainspotter ended up on the ice.

Heard snippets about free rooms at the Expat – GM and King Klong were involved.

There was also mention of the Ting Tong bar and Lucky Lek ended up on the ice – not sure whether the two were connected.

In good French tradition Asterix called in Tequila Slapper to show off her new shoes. Campari and Wilma were invited to do the drinking from her shoes on her behalf – one shoe each. However Crack A Boner was also in the circle so I'm wondering if Tequila Slapper was actually snitching on Crack A Boner's new shoes.

Great Steward spot from Asterix – well received by everybody.

Well done Asterix!!

Hash Naming - Last week Soren and Tina were known as Sodomite and Spreads Easily. Apparently they are now known as Bimbo and Limbo. They had already got their names from the Kamala Koma. Warwick also has a Hash name and is now known as Ice Humper

Run Offences etc ~~Yet to be updated~~

~~Run offences this week covered such aspects as suspect paper, low expectations, misleading and/or not following the correct trail, being idiots, can't follow instructions, relying on others, dog killing, castrating anything that moves, ruining runners rhythm, Hash MP, hands lost in dark places, racing on the hash from unexpected quarters, no paper, no signs, etc. etc.~~

~~Promoters were Wilma, Fungus, Swollen Colon, Top Off, Su Su Nonna, Piss Drinker, Ice Arse, Jesica, Jungle Balls, Campari, Mannekin Pis, Invisible Man, Fungus, Jaws,~~

~~Offensive ones were Jaws, King Kloug, Mannekin Pis, Top Off, Not Long Enough, Ice Arse, Thai Connection, Wilma, Gobby, Flying Dickhead, Forgotten Number, GM, Substandard, Marcus, Piss Drinker, JC, Woodpecker, Ejackulator, Swollen Colon, Sei Dog, Jessica etc. etc.~~

Manekin Pis led the proceedings for the Hashit which took some time to get going as there were so many Hares to gather together. MP's general view was that it was a good run, well marked, thoughtful consideration in making the steps, good Laager location etc etc. When put to the vote it was greeted with fairly unanimous vote of Good Run Good Run. However there was some idiot who shouted Hashit and this solicited another example of MP's arcane rules – this one being that if only one person shouts Hashit they then become the Hashit holder. Apparently that idiot was me!

GM then declared the circle closed.

Actually I also thought it was a good run but now comes the point I would like to make. I have seen in the last week or so that there is a lot of social media traffic where some persons are saying the runs are becoming too long, too tough, too dangerous etc. Others are saying that is not the case and if you don't like it then go on the walk, be a hare etc etc. Both of those points are probably valid but what I particularly noted of last week's run is that of the 100 or so people that could have done the run only about 20 people actually did it. It's then no particular surprise that also rans like me end up on their own which is not necessarily a problem but it is when you end up checking out the trail as well. It also seems that people are already voting with their feet and opting to go on the walk rather than the run. My preference is to do the run but if this is going to be the way things are in the future then I will end up as a walker as well which I don't want to do!! Let's give this some consideration.

On On!
