Phuket Hashers 104, Virgins 10, Visitors 9, Visiting Hashers 0

The Pre-Run

This week's Laager site was in the vicinity of JC's house but required a hairy ride up the hill to where you could park and then a further route march to the Laager site itself. One of those long and thin one's again which required an upper and lower circle seating arrangement. Also included very nice views and logs for people to sit on. Our bus lost its tail end which it has been threatening to do for the past few weeks – glad it his finally gone!

The Run and Hares

Hares this week were Murkury and JC. The role of Hash Horn went to Repressed One. Murkury was nowhere to be seen when it was time to give the instructions so this task was left to JC. He was quite succinct – basically all walkers and runners would be heading up the hill on multicolour paper. At some point on the climb there would be blue paper going off to the right which the walkers should follow. The runners would continue on up the hill on multicolour till at some point they would come back down again on the in-trail. For the walkers the blue paper would eventually rejoin the multicolour and everybody would come back together to the Laager following the same in-trail. All very simple.

As I was keen to get back in good time this week I did take some pre-run advice from JC. In essence he said it was one big climb and when you reach the blue paper if feeling good carry on up the hill otherwise head right on the blue.

So off we set and as promised it was quite steep – at about 400 metres people were shouting checking but Hash Horn had rather got ahead of himself and laid pink paper to the right. Eventually on-on was called and we did go to the right as that was the only way to go on up the hill. Those who went left were less happy.

On up we continued with much heavy breathing – well at least from me there was and before we knew it we had reached the blue paper junction. It was big decision time for me – we were only about 15 minutes into the run but I thought 'Fuck It' I did enough last week so headed right on the blue. As we made our way down the hill on a nicely marked trail we came across some of the early bird starters and politely made our way pass them. I then heard a little bit of a commotion behind me and found out later that Takes It All In had been doing some fancy moves and caused Kill Her to have a tumbling experience. I was however eyes straight ahead and ignored all of this. We eventually got to a point where it was possible to have a little run which I did and eventually came across Asterix at the bottom of one hill who said 'only 200 metres to the Laager'. I thought 'bloody hell, I am going to be back early'. In essence it took me 30 minutes and I was first person in so I guess being on the walk and running at the end would have broken one of Mannekin Pis's rules but I thought 'WTF, I'm already Hashit Holder, why should I care'.

I should have mentioned Wilma who came pass before we got to the blue paper junction. It was then interesting to note he was first runner back followed a couple minutes later by Top Off, Manekin Pis, Not Long Enough et al all shouting 'Wilma you cheating bastard'. I think everybody else got back quite safely.

The Circle

GM started the circle by calling in the Hares and the Hash horn for a drink and thanking them for their time and efforts.

Lucky Lek was called in for Annoumen. He called in Su Su Nonna so she could further hammer home the details of the Coconut Island run. This was followed by details of the Iron Pussy this coming Wednesday. Both these events are also detailed on the Hash Web site.

Jaws and Invisible Man were called in to list the Virgins of which there were 10 listed of which only 4 came in to receive the dastardly treatment. Well done to them.

Returners and Leavers – Some of each.

Visiting Hashers – There were three Visiting Hashers - two from Chang Mai and the other one I couldn't hear the details. I did check the Registrar's list but according to the list there were NO Visiting Hashers recorded for this week.

Hash Shirts Quite a few T-shirts again this week as follows:

- Ya Ba - 222 runs
- On Her Back - 50 runs
- BA - 25 runs
- Goody Goody Moron - 25 runs

Steward Spot - This week's Steward spot went to Key Hole at rather short notice. He however managed to pull it off with his usual aplomb. Three good jokes, one about Travellers with Joxy Moron, Tinkerbell and Repressed One called in as representatives. This was followed by Secret Agent Dick Cobbler's tax problems and his inability to follow Key Hole's advice of offshoring his money – apparently he kept losing it in the water. Final one was the man in the West End Theatre lying across four seats near the orchestra pit – when asked where he came from he didn't reply – eventually he managed to say he came from the balcony above. Boom boom.

Well done Key Hole and have a good trip back to the UK. See you in the Autumn.

Run Offences etc

Run offences this week covered such aspects as rear ending (in many ways), being fast, boasting, failing to register, bragging, slow checking, misleading checking, false not drinking beer, knowing everything, misleading pink paper, Radar Station fetish, assisting accident victim, geriatric tree movers, world politics resolution, etc. etc..

Promoters were JC, Piss Drinker, Ice Arse, Manekin Pis, Invisible Man, Fungus, Tequila Slapper, GM etc.

Offensive ones were Ice Humper, Fast Eddie, Wilma, NLE, Mannekin Pis, Repressed One, IM, Too Old To Fuck, Sweaty Bollox, Not Long Enough, Ice Arse, GM, Jessica etc. etc.

Joxy Moron led the proceedings for the Hashit which took some time to get going as there were so many verses of 'the hairs on her dickey-di-do'. When finally called to order Joxy reflected on this week's circle and how good it had been with lots of singing, lots of energy and lots of laughs. The Hares were called in but one was missing – Murkury. According to the rules this should have meant automatic Hashit or Murkury but because they had hared so many runs Joxy thought it was wrong to then penalise them. The current Hashit Holder (me) was then called in to explain why he got the Hashit last week. I explained I had a bad run, bit under the weather, got isolated, got lost and got back later. So when everybody voted Good Run, Good Run I shouted Hashit. As I was the only one shouting Hashit it was awarded to me. Joxy then led the vote for this week's run and it was a resounding 'Good Run, Good Run'.

There was then interruptions by Bobagob about Scottish translation and Not Long Enough saying it was Welsh Week.

The GM then declared the circle closed.

Following on from my little moan last week about too few people actually going on the run I did engage with that old sage Fungus who said his rule of thumb over the years is a 70:30 split between walkers and runners. Thus when you factor in those hares whose runs you avoid like the plague such as Fungus, Not Long Enough (the name tells it all) etc then that golden ratio could easily be more like 80:20. So perhaps in the Hareline we could give a health warning or even better a spice rating against certain runs. I will say no more!!
